

Privacy Notice for Tim Goldfarb

I will need to collect and process your personal data in order to represent you. I will take all reasonable steps to protect personal data that I hold. This Privacy Notice describes the personal data I collect about you, how it is used and shared, and your rights regarding it.

Data Controller

I am registered with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) as a Data Controller in relation to the personal data that I hold and process as a barrister. My registered address is One Essex Court, Temple, London EC4Y 9AR and my registration number is ZA144192.

Data Collection

All of the personal data that I hold about you is provided to or gathered by me in the course of your case and/or proceedings. Your solicitor and/or I will tell you why we need the information and how we will use it.

My Lawful Basis for processing your information

The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) requires all organisations that process personal data to have a Lawful Basis for doing so. The Lawful Bases identified in the GDPR are:

- Consent of the data subject
- Performance of a contract with the data subject or to take steps to enter into a contract
- Compliance with a legal obligation
- To protect the vital interests of a data subject or another person
- Performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority vested in the controller.
- The legitimate interests of me, or a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the interests, rights or freedoms of the data subject.

The Lawful Basis on which I will process your personal data will include one or more of these Lawful Bases.

The legitimate interests for which I process personal data are as follows:

- Working for a data subject that is my client;
- Transmission within my Chambers for internal administrative purposes, including billing for my work;
- Processing necessary to ensure network and information security, including preventing unauthorised access;
- Processing for direct marketing purposes;
- Processing to prevent fraud or to satisfy my professional obligations and the requirements of my regulator; and
- Reporting possible criminal acts or threats to public security.

I will use your personal data to:

- Provide legal advice and representation
- Assist in training pupils and mini-pupils
- Investigate and address your concerns
- Communicate with you about news, updates and events
- Investigate or address legal proceedings relating to your use of my services/products, or as otherwise allowed by applicable law
- Make statutory returns as required by HMRC

I do not use automated decision-making in the processing of your personal data.

I collect and process both personal data and special categories of personal data as defined in the GDPR. This includes:

Client data

- Name;
- Email;
- Phone number;
- Address;
- Payment or bank details;
- Date of birth;
- Location details;
- Device IP address;
- Financial information;

- Criminal records; and
- Employment and educational records.

I may share your personal data with:

- My Instructing solicitors and other Counsel instructed on a case;
- Expert and factual witnesses, for the purposes of conducting or resolving a case;
- Opposing Counsel and opposing solicitors, for the purposes of conducting or resolving a case;
- Court or tribunals, for the purposes of conducting or resolving a case;
- My Chambers management and staff who provide administrative services;
- My regulator or legal advisors in the event of a dispute or other legal matter;
- Law enforcement officials, government authorities, or other third parties to meet my legal obligations; and
- Any other party where I ask you and you consent to the sharing.

Transfers to third countries and international organisations

The GDPR imposes restrictions on the transfer of personal data outside the European Union (EEA), to third countries or international organisations.

These restrictions are in place to ensure that the level of protection of individuals afforded by the GDPR is not undermined.

Transfers may be made where the Commission has decided that a third country, a territory or one or more specific sectors in the third country, or an international organisation ensures an adequate level of protection.

The GDPR provides derogations from the general prohibition on transfers of personal data outside the EU for certain specific situations. A transfer, or set of transfers, may be made where the transfer is:

- Made with the data subject's informed consent;
- Necessary for the performance of a contract between the data subject and me or for pre-contractual steps taken at the data subject's request;
- Necessary for the performance of a contract made in the interests of the data subject between me and another person;
- Necessary for important reasons of public interest;
- necessary for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims;

- necessary to protect the vital interests of the data subject or other persons, where the data subject is physically or legally incapable of giving consent; or
- made from a register which under UK or EU law is intended to provide information to the public (and which is open to consultation by either the public in general or those able to show a legitimate interest in inspecting the register).

I may retain your personal data unless you ask me to delete it. I will delete or anonymise your personal data at your request unless:

- there is an unresolved issue, such as claim or dispute;
- I am legally required not to; or
- there are overriding legitimate business interests, including but not limited to fraud prevention and protecting customers' safety and security.

Your Rights

The General Data Protection Regulation gives you specific rights concerning your personal data. For example: I am required to inform you about the personal data of yours that I hold and what I use it for; you can ask for a copy of the personal data I hold about you; you can ask me to correct any inaccuracies in the personal data I hold about you; you can ask me to stop sending you direct mail, or emails, or in some circumstances, ask me to stop processing your personal data.

If I do something improper with your personal data you can seek compensation for any distress you are caused or loss you have incurred. You can find out more information from the ICO's website <https://ico.org.uk/make-a-complaint/your-personal-information-concerns/> and this is the organisation that you can complain to if you are unhappy with how I have dealt with your personal data.

Accessing and Correcting Your Personal Data

You may request access to, correction of, or a copy of your personal data by contacting me at tgoldfarb@oeclaw.co.uk and/or One Essex Court, Temple, London EC4Y 9AR.

Marketing Opt-Outs

You may opt out of receiving emails and other messages from my Chambers by following the instructions in those messages.

Cookies

Cookies are small text files that are stored on your browser or device by websites, apps, online media, and advertisements. My Chambers website use cookies to:

- Validate users
- Remember user preferences and settings
- Improve the user experience
- Determine frequency of accessing content
- Measure the effectiveness of advertising campaigns; and
- Analyse site visits and trends.

I will occasionally update my Privacy Notice. When I make significant changes, I will notify you of these by email. I will also publish the updated Notice on my website profile page.

This Privacy Notice was last updated on 24 May 2018.